Cheltenham Borough Council Cabinet – 18th July 2007 Single Advice Contract Report of the A.D. Community Services

1. Executive Summary and recommendation

1.1 The issue

In April 2007 the Cabinet asked officers to work closely with advice agencies to explore the benefits of partnership working in the delivery of advice services.

- 1.2 This report sets out for Cabinet the conclusions of those discussions, and highlights in particular the issues surrounding two main aspects:
 - The size of the contract in activity and value terms
 - The type of any future agreement
- 1.3 I therefore recommend that:
- 1.3.1 Cabinet agree to move to a single contract for the commissioning of advice services to replace current Conditional Offers of Grant, from 1st April 2008.
- 1.3.2 Cabinet agree the timetable proposed in section 5.2 and consider the contract outline, specification and performance information requirements outlined in appendices A and B, having given due consideration to the motion approved by council on 28th June as set out in paragraph 7 of this report.
- 1.3.3 Cabinet agree member representation on the tender-evaluation panel in line with paragraph 6.3.
- 1.3.4 Cabinet formally place on record its thanks to the four advice agencies and to Cheltenham VCA for their support during this consultation process.

1.4 Summary of implications

1.4.1 Financial

The funding streams for the financing of the single advice contract are detailed within section 4 of the report. The move to a single advice contract may result in one compulsory redundancy for the Council, the costs of which are estimated to be £13,500.

1.4.2 Legal

"The move from 'conditional offers of grant' to contracts is to be welcomed. Unless under performance against the terms of current agreements can be evidenced though this transition can not take place until the natural end of current agreements in March 2008.

On the basis that the value of the proposed contract will exceed £144,000, the requirements for complying with the Public Contracts Rules 2006 will apply. These include a requirement to advertise the procurement in the Official Journal of the European Union (OJEU). Legal Services are working closely the AD Community Services and the Principal Procurement Officer on the scope, specification and drafting of this proposed contract.

- 1.5 Implications on corporate and community plan priorities
- 1.5.1 None as a direct result of this report.
- 1.6 Statement on Risk
- 1.6.1 None on the current risk register.
- 1.6.2 There are however some related risks that need highlighting. Should one or more of the current provider agencies fail to secure, in whole or in partnership, the new contract it is possible that they may not survive in their current form. This could lead to a loss of capacity within the voluntary sector in certain areas. Additional external funding for complimentary services obtained by these agencies may also be lost.

Also the contract tendering process, particularly through the European Union procurement requirements, is more complex than the service level agreements or 'offers of grant' and should unforeseen delay occur during the tendering process it may be necessary to extend existing Conditional Offers of Grant, for a short period, to ensure continuity of service provision until the new service is in place, this being subject to the agreement of the existing service providers.

2. Background

2.1 CBC currently has four housing and advice agreements. These services are currently provided by Cheltenham Housing Aid Centre (CHAC), Citizens Advice Bureau (CAB), Cheltenham Community Projects (CCP) and Cheltenham Community Services Centre (CCSC). All services are covered by 'Conditional Offer of Grant' agreements and all agreements are due to end on 31st March 2008.

Cabinet, at its meeting on 12th December, 2006, endorsed in principle the proposal to move towards a single contract for advice services to achieve better coordination, reduction in duplication and an economy of scale within the service provision.

On 10th January, 2007, Social and Community Overview and Scrutiny Committee set up a working group to review the justification for the creation of a single advice agency and the best way it could be achieved. Its recommendations were that Cabinet should "withdraw its original proposals and invite the voluntary sector organisations concerned to make proposals as to how the benefits of closer partnership working can deliver improved advisory services for the town". These recommendations were considered by the Cabinet on 17th April. Cabinet requested officers to revisit the proposal in light of these recommendations, review a possible specification for the service and the process by which the service would be procured, and report back to Cabinet in July 2007, whilst, at the same time, continuing to prepare tender documentation for a single advice contract.

- 2.2 The report of the Overview and Scrutiny Working Party had helped to highlight one of the most controversial and problematic aspects of the original recommendations, i.e. the size, both in terms of activity and of value, of the proposed contract. The management information provided by the four agencies is compiled against differing parameters, making it impossible to produce a single authoritative picture of the scale of activity. The figures set out in 5.1 below illustrate this point well.
- 2.3 During May and June, individual and collective meetings were held with the four agencies An offer to facilitate from Cheltenham VCA was gratefully accepted and meetings were chaired by Angela Gilbert, Services Manager of Cheltenham Voluntary and Community Action.
- 2.4 One of the agencies, CCSC, announced that it would not be bidding for the contract, but the other three confirmed that they would be bidding and that they welcomed this further opportunity to be involved in discussions about the service specification, the scope of the contract and the form of tender. Without exception, their feedback was constructive and helpful and many of their suggestions have been incorporated into the final documents attached in the appendices to this report. The discussions also helped to develop some of the earlier concepts by teasing out their practicalities. The draft specification has thus continued to evolve from the original principles.
- 2.5 Paragraphs 4 and 5 below expand upon the two key issues which emerged from the consultation, i.e. the question of whether a competitively tendered contract is the preferred commissioning vehicle, and the question of the contract size.

3. Comments on the Social and Community Overview and Scrutiny Report

- 3.1 In reviewing the report from Social and Community Overview and Scrutiny Committee, Cabinet Members and officers believe that whilst it made a useful contribution it was somewhat retrospective in content and involving itself more in the interpretation of terminology rather than focusing forward to modernising the service.
- 3.2 Cabinet Members and officers are also of the view that:
 - a) Whilst the original cabinet report arguably was not sufficiently detailed it did provide a good foundation upon which significant detail has been built through the consultation process, by agencies, stakeholder groups, commissioners and officers, to enable an informed decision to be taken.
 - b) Rather than attempting to address the variations of interpretation of terms it is more constructive to define a new type of advice contract. Looking at maximising the income and minimising the debt of those who find themselves in difficulty, and whose homes are threatened, we believe that the major priority for a district housing authority should be focused on retention of the home and prevention of homelessness. An attendant priority is to ensure the well being of those who present, and assist them either directly, through advice, or by correctly sign posting to those organisations or agencies that have the expertise and resources to provide solutions.

- c) It would be counter productive to attempt to split the service currently commissioned by the council into a number of different and smaller contracts not least because of the difficulty posed, and highlighted in the O & S report, when trying to badge and quantify the services. We believe a single comprehensive contract avoids duplication, confusion over terminology and various formats of management information and provide best value for money when commissioning new services for the council tax payers of Cheltenham (see also section 5).
- d) Whilst a small number of current advice areas may be excluded from the draft specification there are defensible reasons for so doing. Some listed services are historical anomalies or services identified as being in the remit of other more appropriate funding agencies or simply of questionable value to the commissioner.
- e) Whilst accepting that should current delivery agencies not submit successful tenders there could be a loss of capacity and mixed and matched funding for related services; some of this funding, and indeed new funding streams for related services, would follow the service or be gained through bids from a knowledgeable and pro active delivery organisation.
- f) It is not for the council to dictate to independent service organisations how they should organise their business. Successful organisations adapt to changing circumstances and this is the hallmark of successful, energetic and modern organisations. We are confident that our existing providers in Cheltenham will respond positively and effectively to the challenge.

4. Conditional Offer of Grant, Partnership Agreement or Contract.

4.1 Currently funding agreements between the Council and third sector service providers use a Conditional Offer of Grant as the commissioning vehicle, the preferred replacement, in their time, for Service Level Agreements. These vehicles are not seen as the most appropriate for current day commissioning of services, as highlighted by Legal Services in the review report submitted to Cabinet on 27th March:

"Conditional Offers of Grant are a type of legal agreement, binding on both the council and the recipient organisation, and the terms can be altered only by agreement.

The format of the Conditional Offers of Grant does not lend itself well to the creation of legal responsibilities for the delivery of the services for which the grants are paid.

Clearer provisions are required to address monitoring requirements and to deal with the consequences of poor performance."

This view is supported by the Council's procurement team.

Legal services also stated that "the move from 'conditional offers of grant' to contracts is to be welcomed". Unless under-performance against the terms of current agreements can be evidenced though, this transition cannot take place until the natural end of current agreements in March 2008.

- 4.2 A partnership agreement involving two or more of the current providers could also prove problematic in terms of both specifying and managing the procured service. In order to avoid costly and unnecessary duplication, it would be preferable for the Council to commission and manage through a single lead organisation similar to Shelter's role in the earlier county-wide youth housing advice contract.
- 4.3 In either case the agreement would be viewed as a contract simply by another name, and thus begs the question: why not have a contract in the first place? If the purpose is to avoid a tendering process this may not be achievable, let alone desirable or even lawful. Procuring a service of the type and values referred to in this report is caught by Regulation 8 and Category 27 of Part B of Schedule 3 of the Public Contracts Regulations 2006 and would require a competitive tendering exercise following the OJEU notification procedure. It is also caught by the Council's own Contracts Rules requiring it to seek tenders from at least three relevant organisations. It would be difficult to prove the council had obtained best value if it had not market-tested or tendered. The use of a contract as the best vehicle to specify and manage the service and tendering as the best method to evidence best value are recommended by officers.
- 4.4 It is noted that a new multi authority group has been formed to look at a county wide contracting process for legal and advice services. The timescale for this is not co terminus with Cheltenham's current process. We recommend, however, that officers keep a watching brief and consider any proposals when looking at contract renewal for 2011.

5. The Service – Sizing the Contract

- 5.1 There are a number of options for setting the level of the service value from which Cabinet could chose:
 - a) The current level of funding into the Conditional Offers of Grant for provider agencies in 2006/7 was £256,800 pa (of which £231,900 goes to direct service provision).
 - b) The figure for current payments for all housing, money, debt advice and related services, according to the agencies' original figures, is £213,387pa
 - c) The figure currently paid for Housing and Housing Benefit related advice services, according to the agencies' revised figures, is £181,500pa
 - d) The current sum proposed by the formula used in the Overview and Scrutiny Working Party's report for housing and benefits advice, is £139,781pa or £169,165 when including money advice.
- 5.2 Sums vary as it is acknowledged by both officers and the O&S Working Party that there are difficulties in quantifying, and separating out, categories of advice under current arrangements as the information produced by different agencies is recorded in different ways using different formats. There were also differences of opinion over the use of categories, in the main between benefits advice, debt advice and money advice. The original report assumed that this was all about income maximisation and - that the knowledge and skills required were transferable, impartable or interchangeable. Some argue that they are separate disciplines.

- 5.3 Whichever of the sums, ranging from £181,500 to £256,800, is selected, the question remains of what to do with any remaining balance if it does not include the whole. It makes no sense to argue strongly for a single advice contract to cover the majority of council-funded advice services, whilst accepting a continuation of the current arrangements, with all their inherent defects, for the remainder.
 - The options are, therefore, either to let a second contract covering those advice areas not captured within the main contract, or to accept that it would be more practical, both in terms of contract-management and service-provision to let a new single contract focused on current council obligations and priorities.
- 5.4 It is felt that separating out these services into a major and minor agreement as a combination of contract and/or service level agreement would be resource-intensive in administrative terms and be inefficient in service delivery terms. It is therefore recommended that services currently delivered in this field be refocused to address council duties and priorities and issued as a single contract (ref. draft information for tenderers and service specification and management information requirement at appendices A and B).
- 5.5 By issuing a new single contract, focused on district council duties and business plan priorities, there is a perceived risk that some of the advice fields offered, in particular by CAB, will fall outside the specification. For instance, the CAB currently offers advice on topics as divergent as capital gains tax and international travel arrangements. It would be wrong, however, to assume automatically that, because CAB offers these services, they are funded by CBC grant. In fact, CBC contributes £98,600 per annum to CAB out of a total gross income for 05/6 of £428.6k.
- The draft specification recognises that although the service-provider will not be required to offer the same specialist level of advice across all service areas, it will be required to signpost clients to alternative sources of specialist advice for those areas not caught within the scope of the contract. An important part of the tender-evaluation process will be to identify the arrangements which tenderers will put in place for the reception and early identification of a client's needs through some type of triage mechanism.
 - Appendix C sets out in tabular form services currently provided by the agencies; services for inclusion in the draft specification and services for which the specification seeks a signposting service only.
- 5.7 In recognition of the fact that one of the initial drivers for the review was the elimination of duplication between the agencies, it is also important that the council should not be funding services which duplicate existing council services. The draft specification attempts to recognise this risk.
- 5.8 The view has been expressed that the specification is not sufficiently specific as it does not produce an extensive schedule of all the individual topics to be covered. Whilst it is important that the specification should be unambiguous, it is deliberately framed around outcomes rather than inputs in a conscious attempt to reduce the scope for later demarcation disputes with the successful tenderer.

6. Timescale

- 6.1 It is just still possible to deliver on the original timescale assuming there are no unforeseen delays. Should delays occur, it would be necessary to extend current conditional offers of grant beyond the end of March 2008 to ensure a seamless service delivery.
- 6.2 The current amended timeframe is:

Event	Date
Report to cabinet	18 th July 2007
	+ 5 days
European Journal advert	24 th July 2007
At risk letters to current providers
Expressions of interest	Return by 10 th September

	by shortlisted agencies.
Cabinet approve tender and award contract	11 December 2007
Contract issued	End of December 2007

New contract starts	1 st April 2008

6.3 In order to achieve these timescales, it will be necessary to have in place an officer/member tender evaluation panel ready for the return of expressions of interest in September. It is recommended that officers on the panel should include a representative of the Legal Services Team and the Procurement Manager as well as the Deputy Chief Executive. It would be appropriate for the Cabinet Member Quality of Life and one other Cabinet Member to act as the councillor representatives.

7. Council resolution

7.1 On 28th June, 2007, the Council debated a motion proposed by Councillor Steven Jordan that:

"This Council notes that the plans for the 'Single Advice Contract' contained in the current draft contract and specification will not include a range of services that are currently funded by the Council including such things as Consumer issues; Employment issues; Health issues; Immigration; Tax; Relationship breakdown; Travel; Utilities and so on when there is a housing component to them. This Council believes that safeguarding such areas of advice is vital to the wellbeing of its Citizens and, therefore, agrees that they should continue to be supported with Council funding and urges the Cabinet to include them in the proposed contract".

7.2 Following a lengthy debate and a recorded vote, the motion was carried by a majority of 18 votes to 14 with 2 abstentions.

Whilst it is not within the power of the Council to instruct the Cabinet on issues which fall within the scope of the Executive's authority, it would be appropriate for the Cabinet to take into account the strength of feeling shown by the Council, and to demonstrate that due consideration has been given to the views expressed by the majority of the Councillors present at the meeting on 28^{th} June.

8. Consultation

- 8.1 Consultation with the agencies took place
 - a) With agencies individually, facilitated by the Overview and Scrutiny Working Party, in January 2007.
 - b) With the agencies both collectively and individually, facilitated by Cheltenham VCA, in May and June 2007.
 - c) With internal and external stakeholder in May and June 2007.
